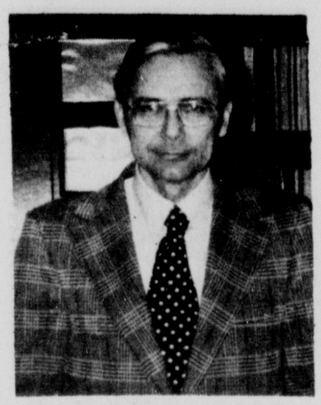
Jim Huff resigns as city manager



Jim Huff

City Manager Jim Huff submitted his resignation to the City Council at a special meeting Wednesday night, effective Oct. 1.

Huff, city manager since May 1972, has accepted the position of borough manager of Wilkinsburg, Pa., a city with a population of 27,000. Huff said today he has enjoyed being in Sikeston and thinks it is a good city. He came to Sikeston from Saratoga, Calif., where he had served as city manager from April of 1967 to May of 1972.

Mayor Frank Ferrell said today that the council accepted Huff's resignation with regret and that his association with the city has initiated several changes in city administration procedures that will be beneficial to the City of Sikeston for years to come.

The council awarded a contract for phase one of the Sikeston Memorial Airport improvement project to McMullin Construction Co. of Sikeston. The McMullin firm submitted a bid Tuesday of $231,023.45. The only other bidder, Girardeau Industrial Contractors of Cape Girardeau, submitted a bid of $238,953.15. City engineers had estimated the cost of the project at $235,000.

The bid is for runway and taxiway resurfacing and lighting. The airport will probably be closed during construction which will begin within 10 days.

In a letter to the council, a board of Sikeston Country Club members, declined to purchase the country club property from the city at this time, although the board is still considering the purchase and studying recommendations by the council. The city had offered to sell the property to the club for $98,000.

Achter found guilty in Circuit Court trial

CHARLESTON-- In a trial by jury Wednesday in Circuit Court, Leslie Allen Achter of East Prairie was found guilty of carrying a concealed weapon about his person.

Judge Stanley Grimm of Cape Girardeau County, serving as special judges set sentencing for Nov. 7, at which time Achter will also be tried on burglary and stealing charges in connection with a break- in Dec. 10, 1972 at the Fred Tidwell home near Bertrand.

Achter presently serving a 15- year sentence in custody of the State Department of Corrections at Jefferson City, was returned to Charleston for Wednesday's trial. He was arrested Dec. 20, 1972 on burglary and stealing charges stemming from break- in at the Bobby Johnson home near Anniston.

Wednesday's jury, composed of three women and nine men, deliberated seven minutes before reaching the verdict.

Witnesses called by Prosecuting Attorney Clifton Banta Jr. were Norris Grissom and Jerry Crismon of the Missouri State Highway Patrol. Kilmer Matthews of East Prairie was the only defense witness.

According to testimony, the weapon, a loaded .32- caliber automatic pistol, was found by Trooper Grissom in Achter's car on Dec. 20, 1972. The gun was placed, with the barrel pointed down, between the seat and backrest on the driver's side of the car.

Achter reportedly abandoned his car on Lee Street after being chased by the patrol officers and was apprehended by Trooper Crismon a short distance away behind the home of Kilmer Matthews on Herring Street. At that time, Achter was charged with four traffic violations.

In his closing statement, Banta told the jury the gun was carried within each reach and convenient control of Achter and said the gun in the seat was not easily discernable by ordinary observation.

MissCo license agent replaced

CHARLESTON-- Mrs. W. J. Simmons received notification Tuesday that her services as license fee agent for Mississippi County would be terminated Oct. 1.

In a letter from James Spradling, director of revenue, Mrs. Simmons, who has served as fee agent for nine years, was informed that, following evaluation of the office, it was determined that new procedures and personnel were needed.

Mrs. Simmons expressed her appreciation to the customers and automobile dealers of Mississippi County for the many courtesies extended to her throughout her tenure.

Mrs. Gary Davis of 210 William St., East Prairie, said Friday she had been notified in a letter from Spradling that she had been selected as license fee agent for the county to replace Mrs. Simmons.

Mrs. Davis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fennema of East Prairie and the mother of five children. She has lived in East Prairie for 17 years. The family attends the Church of God. Mrs. Davis has been active in scouting, Parent Teachers Association and other civic activities.

Mrs. Davis will leave Sunday for Jefferson City where she will receive a week's training. She said the fee office would possibly remain in the same location on West Marshall Street in Charleston and that she anticipates no change in office hours.

Baby's body in trash chute

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP)—A custodian at the Towers North dormitory on the campus of Southeast Missouri State University here found the body of a baby girl Wednesday in a trash chute inside the dormitory, police said.

George Rouse, Cape Girardeau County coronor, said the infant was born either Tuesday night or early Wednesday, and he speculated that the baby may have been born off campus and then dumped into the trash chute.

An autopsy was being performed to determine the exact cause of death, Rouse said, adding that the results would probably be available today.

Youth held, caught in stolen car

Terry Markland, 19, of 319 William St. is being held in city jail today for investigation of car theft Tuesday night.

The car owned by Scott County Probate Judge John Sides was taken while it was parked outside Bill O'Guinn Funeral Home.

The car was recovered when Markland was stopped Wednesday by St. Louis County authorities on suspicion of having a stolen car. Police said Markham admitted stealing the car at the time of his arrest.

A juvenile who was a passenger in the car is being held by juvenile authorities.

2 injured in area accidents

Two persons were injured in two area traffic accidents Wednesday, the highway patrol announced today.

A near head- on collision at 4:40 p.m. on a gravel road five miles southeast of Fredericktown resulted in one minor injury.

June Bemis, 45, of Fredericktown received bruises when the car in which she was riding, driven by Terry Wojtczuk, 19, of Fredericktown, met a car driven by Carol Leonard, 31, of Fredericktown on a curve and the cars sideswiped each other.

Mrs. Bemis was taken to Madison County Memorial Hospital in Fredericktown.

Another two- car collision at 1:25 p.m. two miles east of Marble Hill on Highway 34 occurred when an eastbound car driven by Clifton Gilmore, 18, of Grassy attempted to pass another eastbound car driven by Ted Hanners, 38, of Sedgewickville as the latter attempted a left turn.

Valerie Gilmore, 15, of Grassy received a scalp cut and a possible broken jaw. She was taken to Chaffee General Hospital.

Mississippi County man found shot

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, V. I. (AP)— A Virgin Islands pathologist will examine the bodies of a retired boat captain and a former Puerto Rican school teacher to confirm that the deaths of the two were homicides.

The two, who had been shot to death, were discovered Monday in the same room of a welfare housing project on St. Thomas, police said. Police said they believed both were homicide victims, but were awaiting final word from the autopsy.

"We want to be sure that we have the facts correct," Public Safety Commissioner Alphonso Christian said.

The victims were identified as Jenny Ortiz, 33, the former teacher and the mother of two, and Ben J. Arnet, 60, the retired boat captain, of Mississippi County, Mo.

There have been 16 slayings in the past 13 months on St. Croix, another island in this U. S. territory of 100,000 people.

The housing development deaths would be the first in that period on St. Thomas, which lies north of St. Croix.

Authorities managed to keep the deaths secret for almost six hours after the bodies were discovered by a

Bogus bill passed here

Police are investigating the passing of a counterfeit $20 bill at the U-Pump- It Service Station at the intersection of Malone and East streets.

According to the investigating officer, Cpl. Walter Wilson, a complaint was received Wednesday morning that a $20 bill had been returned by Bank of Sikeston to the station because the bill was counterfeit.

An attendant at the station, who works from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m., said she thought she remembered the man who gave her the bill and said he was a regular customer.

The Sikeston Fire Department was called to two small fires Wednesday.

Burning trash set fire to weeds about 3 p.m. Wednesday along County Line Road behind Turner Dairy.

Learning by doing

Student-built house to be displayed Sunday

By PAT GROJEAN

Instead of sitting in a classroom studying the method and techniques of building a house, high school juniors and seniors enrolled in Wayne Land's vocational building trades class spend their classroom hours actually building a house.

During the 1972- 73 school year a 1,472 square- foot house was constructed on the corner of Dona Street and Ables Road. The Sikeston Area Vocational School will display the home in an open house Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

Students in the 1973- 74 class will serve as guides and refreshments will be served.

Bids are now being accepted on the house and will be opened Sept. 26.

Bids should be mailed to the Board of Education office, in care of Charles Simpson.

The program is taught as a two- year course, beginning with students entering the junior year of high school. In addition to gaining on the job experience through actual construction of a home, hours are also spent in the classroom studying building details.

Last school year was the first time the school had undertaken the project entirely on its own. Until that time, students had been building houses since the 1969- 70 school year for Recovery, Inc. Gerald Jackson, director of vocational education, said that as a result of the school undertaking the entire project, students had more choice in the floor plan and other decisions and were able to participate in the buying.

A committee of school personnel chooses the lot, but the students participate in most of the other decisions.

The careful work done by the students can be seen during a tour of the house. The boys did all work except the brick laying, plumbing, carpeting laying and a few other details which they would have done had not heavy rains of last winter prevented them from working on it all the time.

The house build during the past school year, is a three bedroom unit and features central air conditioning and heating, finished walls, drapes and carpeting throughout.

The house includes a kitchen, den, dining- living room combination, three bedrooms and two full baths. Several additional features give the house a special touch which other houses its size often do not have.

All cabinet work in the house was done by students...and they are not just plain, ordinary cabinets either. The design and finish add a special touch to the kitchen and bathrooms.

Cabinets in the kitchen were made more useful by having them open on both sides of an extended area which separates the kitchen and breakfast or den area.

The kitchen cabinets also have 18 more inches of storage space, than average in that the ceiling was not dropped to meet the cabinets and they were built lower to the countertop than most factory constructed cabinets. All shelves in the cabinets

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Are you as nice to members of your own family as you are to strangers?

The Daily Standard like most other newspapers across the U. S. is faced with an increased newsprint shortage which can curtail the size of our newspapers and reduce our plans for certain special editions.

The Ontario- Minnesota Pulp & Paper Co., a subsidiary of Boise Cascade, is our supplier of newspring and has been on strike since July 9. Our carload of newsprint for July was delayed until August 21 when another paper mill, Bowater agreed to ship us a carload on this date. However, the Canadian rail strike was called on August 24 so we are tracing this carload to see if it possibly made it across the border before the strike. If it didn't, then our problem is compounded unless the Canadian government orders the rail strikers back to work.

Our latest communication from Boise Cascade reads: "There is no improvement in the outlook for settlement of the labor disputes at Kenora or other struck mills in Eastern Canada and work stoppages on the Canadian rail line continues to impair distribution of existing supplies. We wish to reemphasize the need to conserve your current newsprint stock on hand."

There is no change in this situation after Labor Day, there is no alternative left for the Standard but to conserve its use of newsprint by reducing the size of the papers, and this will restrict news and advertising to a certain extent.

We will keep our readers and advertisers informed with the assurance that we will do our utmost to serve your news and advertising needs.

SOAP(OPERA)
AND WATER(GATE)

"Watergate, Watergate everywhere, and not a drop to drink." This, or a similar variation on the Ancient Mariner's lament may be echoed by daytime TV viewers come Tuesday, Sept. 18. On that day the Ervin Committee hearings resume their televised invation of the nation's living rooms. Soon the cast of senators will likely pre-empt "Peyton Place," "The Edge of Night" and other daytime favorites, raising more ire than awareness among many housewives."

These housewives have allies. Recent national surveys indicate a majority of Republican voters are piqued at what they consider to be partisan programing. Soap operas may deal in the failings of individuals, too, but these individuals were not elected or appointed to high public office.

On the other hand, surveys also reveal that for a clear majority of Americans, the committee's absence only made the heart grow fonder. Viewers seem willing to go along with President Nixon's suggestion to "turn Watergate over to the courts," providing no one suggests turning off the set. In fact, Kentucky station KET has demonstrated the hearings' popularity by distributing thousands of program guides listing biographical information on 132 Watergate notables to eager viewers. Here again, it is felt, you can't tell the players without a program.

NEW YORK (AP) — You may not be quite ready to answer that roll call up yonder yet, but there's no hiding the fact that you're an old-timer if:

You still keep in your clothes closet an old outer coat or sport jacket you wore before Pearl Harbor.

Common sense is the virtue you value most highly because you see it so seldom in people.

Cocktail parties make you sleepy, and you no longer go up and talk to strange blondes at them.

As a matter of fact, you rarely speak to any woman at all, including your wife, unless she speaks to you first.

You've quit taking exercises to pep you up because they tire you out.

The barber hasn't tried to sell you a bottle of hair lotion for 10 years.

You'd rather take a quiet walk in a country cemetery and look for unusual epitaphs on tombstones than go to an expensive night club and gawk at the celebrities.

There are now more things in your life that make you yawn than make you laugh.

It amuses you to see a small child pick its nose, and it doesn't occur to you at all to tell the kid to stop it.

Somewhere in your desk is a tentative draft of the epitaph you have written for yourself, but you doubt it will ever be carved in stone, as it is 40 words longer than Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

You never chewed bubble gum in your youth because it hadn't appeared on the scene yet.

If you had to, you could probably still strum 'Sweet Adeline" on a mandolin. Certainly you're the only one on your block who remembers all the words to the tune.

You are not as afraid of death itself as you are afraid of dying.

The doctor and you share an unspoken secret — the knowledge that there is no real cure for what ails you: the simple erosion of time.

But you go right on taking a patent medicine the doctor didn't prescribe and doesn't know about.

When you see three male teen-agers approaching, you cross to the other side of the street. Better be safe than sorry.

Yep, old-timer, there's no doubt it — you're an old-timer.

BE READY TO SIGN
FOR AMBULANCE
DISTRICT

By the time this is received by our subscribers, petitions for formation of an ambulance district in central and western Monroe County will very likely be in the hands of people through the area.

Be ready to sign it immediately when it is presented to you.

The ambulance situation is one of the most critical that has faced our county and its people in the last fifty years or more. Even though the state department has indicated it is possible to continue ambulance service of the present type for a few more months, time is running out and those petitions must be signed immediately and machinery put in motion for a state- approved ambulance service.

It will take several months to hold the required hearings and elections, to get equipment ordered, received and into operation.

There isn't time for delay of any sort.

A MIXED BLESSING

Across - the - board freezing of wages and prices has resulted in confusion and in some cases defiance. On the whole, however, the public supports the Administration's radical new anti- inflation measures.

Included in the freeze are the rates of public utilities such as investor - owned electric companies. During World War II and the Korean War, utility rates were exempt from price controls, because they have always been subject to public regulation. This time it is a different story. No one would be more pleased than the utility industry if a temporary wage price freeze set the state for restoration of the more normal anti- inflation forces of a free market. However, it should not be forgotten that a portion of utility rate increases are directly traceable to the added expense of environmental protection measures that now form part of the capital investment of every electric company. The costs of environmental protection cannot be swept under the rug by wage and price controls. If the freeze on prices and wages continues, for any length of time, and rates fail to reflect the growing costs of antipollution programs, as well as the dollars and cents economics of producing and distributing electricity, the end result will be less pollution control and less electricity.

Those who applaud wage and price controls as a final and definitive answer to inflation should remember that such controls are not an unmixed blessing. They can lead to shortages, and a shortage of electric energy is something the nation can ill afford. As for controlling inflation, there is no substitute for curbs on excessive governmental spending.

INTELLIGENT
ACTION IMPERATIVE

Nearly 200 experts of the energy industries have just concluded three years of study of U. S. energy resources and policies. The principal conclusion of the study is that increasing the availability of domestic energy supplies is the best way to improve the U. S. energy supply demand situation.

A report of the study entitled "U. S. Energy Outlook" states that, "Key decisions must ... be made now to develop sound national energy, econcomic and environmental policies to spur investment in domestic natural resource development." The report emphasized that sound national policy could lead to development of the potentially vast energy resources of the United States to meet nearly 90 per cent of the nation's energy requirement sby 1985. It also noted that reliance on increasing imports to meet energy needs would lead to excessive dependence on foreign energy supplies amounting to about 40 per cent of total energy and two thirds of oil requirements by 1985, versus 12 and 23 per cent in 1970. The report further concluded that restraining the growth of fuel consumption, as some propose, would alter life- styles and adversely affect unemployment, economic growth and consumer choice.

It is made apparent that intelligent national action now can assure a reasonably bright energy future for the United States. This is true in spite of the fact that during the next three to five years further deterioration of the domestic energy supply position appears virtually certain due to long lead times required to develop new domestic supplies. Whether this intermediate energy pinch becomes a threat to the security of the nation depends in large measure upon federal government policies. The report states that these policies will be crucial determinants of our long- term energy position. In substance, the nation has the major portion of the energy resources it needs, but it lacks the policies to make those resources available -- an ironic situation indeed.

A YEAR FOR ACTION

It surely would be quite difficult for anyone any longer to substantiate the thesis that the American economic system is not responsible to the wishes of the consumer. Industries producing every imaginable product and service now seek ways to meet consumer expectations concerning the design and general value of the products or services which they provide for their customers, the people of the United States. Insurance is a case in point.

In the field of auto insurance, many major elements of the industry have been very active in helping develop workable no- fault coverage which would reduce litigation and speed adequate payment to east economic loss and pay medical costs of those injured in auto accidents. Forty-eight state legilsatures will be in general session during 1973. Nearly all of them will be considering some type of no- fault reform, and 12 states already have passed legislation providing for no-fault payment to auto accident victims. There is now a ground swell of public support for no-fault insurance reform to reduce the hardships suffered by those injured in auto accidents. As one industry publication commented, "Numerous studies show the present system is too slow, expensive and uncertain. It grossly overpays minor injury claims while people with serious injuries often get too little, or nothing at all ... It's no longer a question of will the no-fault principle be accepted; it's a question of what kind of no-fault system will be most acceptable."

It is particularly urgent during 1973 that the many states considering no-fault insurance reform adopt effective systems of their own. Without positive state action, pressure will rapidly mount for federal legislation setting up a national no-fault system whose sweeping and uniform provisions would override the excellent plans already developed by the states and prevent the development of no-fault systems adapted to individual state needs and the best interests of the driving public.

FIRST OF IT S KIND
POOR READER SUES
EDUCATION SYSTEM

In a first- of- its- kind case, the San Francisco Unified School District is being sued to the tune of $1 million in damages by an unidentified student called "Peter Doe," who charges that he was graduated from high school with the ability to read only at a fifth- grade level.

His mother also alleges that school officials defrauded her by repeatedly assuring her that her son was progressing normally in school.

"Peter Doe" is an 18- year - old white, middle- class student who attended school regularly, was never held back a grade and was not considered a disciplinary problem.

Essentially, the suit rests on the contention that under California law the state is responsible for minimum educational standards and establishing a system which turns out students who meet those standards.

According to the plaintiff's attorney, Susanne Martinez of San Francisco's Youth Law Center, "This case is the first of what will undoubtedly be a series of this type ... a forerunner of an effort on the part of parent and citizens to use the judicial system to focus on the fact that the schools have failed to provide the Peter Does of this country with the kind of education to which they are entitled."

Many educators are understandably dubious about the merits of the suit — and its implications. So are some lawyers.

"I think the case is one that does not belong in the courts," says Judge Haskell Freedman, former counsel to the Massachusetts Teachers Assn. The suit, he says, could open up hundreds of others which potentially could cost billions of dollars to the taxpayers.

Attorney Martinez admits that her client will have a "significant burden of proof" to show that his lack of learning was the fault of the school system, not of himself or his parents.

This is one of those cases that could either sink without a trace, or start a revolution.

COURT TAKES A
STEP IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION ON OBSCENITY

The recent United States Supreme Court ruling on pornography is a step in the right direction, away from the moral permissiveness which has encouraged the widespread distribution of obscene material in our society.

The 5- 4 decision has two important aspects which citizens should bear in mind in order to help put the ruling into effect in their own communities.

The justices overturned a 1957 ruling that material must be "utterly without redeeming social value" in order to be declared obscene. In practice this ruling meant that almost nothing could be outlawed. The new decision, instead, declares that the material may be ruled obscene if, "taken as a whole," it "does not have serious literary, artistic, political or scientific value."

In addition, the Court ruled that material should be judged by local community standards of decency. In the past, the justices had held that national standards should be applied. This meant that if something was accepted anywhere in the country, then it could be sold even in areas where the community would emphatically reject it. This aspect of the ruling rightly gives more weight to the judgments of individual communities throughout the United States, where common sense, decency and moral values still prevail.

Chief Justice Burger pointed out that those who wanted no controls on pornography demeaned the First Amendment by equating "the free and robust exchange of ideas and political debate with commercial exploitation of obscene material." No longer will pornographers be able so easily to hind behind the Constitution. Citizens throughout the country will welcome this decision. HLH

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
The Shan Disconnection:
Offer We Cannot Refuse?

WASHINGTON-- The colorful Shan guerrillas have offered to sell the United States most of the Southeast Asian opium crop and to wage war on any other opium convoys that may try to operate in the area.

In exchange, they want $12 million in hard cash and a U. S. promise to help them win autonomy from Burma.

This astonishing proposal was made in writing by two top Shan leaders who sent an emissary down from the hills to meet clandestinely in Bangkok with Rep. Lester Wolff, D- N. Y. As chairman of a House narcotics subcommittee, Wolff is the House's leading expert on Burma- Thai- Laos opium production. He was in Bangkok last month on a survey with five other congressmen.

The signed Shan offer to destroy up to 400 tons of high-grade Asian opium, combined with the U. S.- sponsored crackdown on Turkish opium, theoretically could wipe out 75 per cent of the supply of heroin on America's streets. And $12 million admittedly would be cheaper than trying to stop the smuggling operation the hard way.

DRAMATIC ENCOUNTER

As Wolff recounts his dramatic encounter in Bangkok, the Shan emissary, an Englishman, arranged by letter and telephone to meet with him in a hotel lobby away from his congressional colleagues. A follow- up meeting was held in a nook off a bustling Bangkok street.

The Englishman handed him the two- page proposal signed by Gen. Law Hsin Han and Boon Tai, the two rebel leaders, who also sent as evidence of good faith a handwritten list of all recent opium shipments by mule, backpack and trucks within the vast Shan state area.

Skeptical at first but eager to explore the offer, Wolff invited American diplomatic, narcotics and CIA officials in Thailand to a meeting where he laid out the strange Shan proposal.

At this private session, the authorities confirmed that the Englishman was an authentic Shan contact and that some of the handwritten reports of opium convoys agreed precisely with their own secret information. Our own sources report that both the State Department and CIA had also been approached by the Shan insurgents but that the negotiations had been aborted by Washington.

PROGRESS REPORT

Wolff left it to the American officials in Bangkok to pursue the offer but asked for a quick progress report, fearing the unorthodox Shan gambit might become snarled in red tape and bureaucratic timidity.

When Wolff reached Hong Kong four days later, he was called by his Shan contract, who reported nothing whatsoever was being done about the Shan offer.

At our request, Wolff has now agreed to show us the proposal in hopes this might stir at least preliminary talks on the feasibility of buying up the Shan opium crop. After all, the United States has subsidized Turkish opium farmers with $35 million a year so they would stop growing the lethal stuff. The United States also secretly paid $1 million to Chinese traffickers and others in Thailand for contraband opium, which was burned. (A secret CIA report claims, however, that the U. S. authorities were deceived and really burned cheap fodder covered with opium.)

Wolff's document, typed beneath the crossed swords letterhead of the Shan State Army, is titled "Proposals to Terminate the Opium Trade in Shan State." It begins:

'TEMPORARY MEASURES'

"The Shan State Army and its allies will invite...the United States Narcotics Bureau, or any similar body, to visit the opium areas of Shan State and to transmit information about opium convoys on their own wireless.

"The S. S. A. and its allies will ensure that all opium controlled by their armies is burnt under international supervision. The opium will be sold at a price to be negotiated later, but the basis...should be the Thai border price." At present, this would amount to roughly $12 million for 400 tons of opium.

In return for these "temporary measures," the Shan armies want a "permanent solution" based on political self- determination for the Shans and agricultural assistance from the United States to "replace opium with other crops." If this is finally accomplished, promised the Shan leaders, they will "allow helicopters under international supervision to search out and destory any opium fields that still remain."

In Wolff's view, the advantage of destroying 400 tons of opium far outweights the ruffling of official Burmese feathers, which direct dealings with the Shans would cause.

'HEAVILY INVOLVED'

Our own CIA sources confirm that the Shan State Army is a tremendous factor in the Southeast Asian drug traffic. One secret report by the CIA's Basic and Geographic Intelligence Office asserts: "The Shan State Army, the largest of several forces that have been fighting for Shan independence from Burma...is also heavily involved in the opium business."

Another CIA document tells of caravans of "up to 600 horses and donkeys and 300 to 400 men...carrying in excess of 16 tons" moving out of the Shan State. Classified CIA and Justice Department documents say 400 tons of the 700 to 750 tons of opium produced in Southeast Asia come from Burma, much of it from regions controlled or near the Shan State armies.

Wolff, while reluctant to leave Congress during the wind-up of the 1973 session, is willing to serve as an emissary to the Shan generals if it will help get negotiations going. Although he is unwilling to vouch for the Shan generals' ability to deliver on their proposals, he feels they at least warrant serious talk.

"So far," he told us, "the U. S. government seems far more eager to wipe out insurgents than to wipe out the heroin trade."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Inside White House:
Nixon Tells Brain Trusters to Wipe Out Wage- Price Controls by Year's End

WASHINGTON--- From an ultra- high White House source, who leaks only to that plumber of plumbers, George Meany, it is learned that President Nixon has directed his economic brain trusters, in effect, to wipe out all wage and price controls by New Year's Eve.

Result is that Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz and Cost of Living Council czar Prof. John Dunlop, the two presidential advisers who "run the show," have devised plans to phase out all phases.

Unimpeachable sources have said it would be done "piecemeal," industry by industry, wage contract by wage contract. Thus, by the first of the year, there would be little left for the Cost of Living Council to do but to shuffle and file papers--- which is what they're mostly doing now anyway.

As the AFL- CIO chief Meany sees it, industry by industry will come in and "show a record, asking for exemption." Dunlop and Shultz, according to Meany, would grant these exemptions "on the record."

"That is part of their plan," says Meany, "and it is quite possible that controls could be off by the end of the year. There has even been a change in wage controls."

I've polled many members of the Cost of Living Council's Labor- Management Advisory Committee and find they see controls ending with the final moments of 1973. One member, requesting anonymity, said:

"After taking the controls apart piecemeal, the President will take to the air this winter and simply announce that's all there is, there isn't any more Phase Four. By that time, there will be mighty little left, since the President, as you notice, is knocking it out point by point anyway."

Teamsters chief Frank (Fitz) Fitzsimmons, after shying from discussions of the committee's inner workings, laid low Phase Four.

"I'm sure all the control will be off by then (1974). This is the blueprint. The President is gearing to end controls. There certainly is a push to end them by the end of the year. Anyway, the majority of controls will be eliminated by then. So it will take no real effort."

Fitz not only is an Advisory Committee member, he is close to the President and it can be presumed that the White House keeps the Teamsters leader well briefed.

But Meany, though he's "bouncing" on "Dick Nixon's head" as the labor leader warned he would, also is kept fully informed by the White House. This is on Mr. Nixon's personal instructions.

Meany hasn't ceased lacerating Labor Secretary Brennan. "I can never trust a man who wears suede shoes," says Meany of Brennan (who wears them). It's Shultz who briefs Meany regularly. They talked Aug. 28 and 29. And sometimes they talk "four or five times a day."

Shultz guards these conversations. He whips up a fury over any public talk of controls' end. His theory is that unions then delay signing contracts so they can get higher wage rates and that suppliers and merchants hold back goods so they can get out from under price ceilings.

There are signs that Phase Four already is a paper tiger. There has been virtually no beefing up of the Internal Revenue Service's (IRS) 3,000- man force of inspectors and enforcers. The IRS's specialized stabilization branch has been dismantled and parts merged into the regular Treasury operations.

Shultz is off to Japan, Dunlop has been carrying culture to Britain, and Prof. Herb Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, has been traveling quietly, preparatory to a return to academe.

All of them have been bullish on tranquility on the labor- management front. All of them advised the President there would be no auto strike--- nor any in meat packing or the agricultural implement industry where contracts expire Oct. 1--- Caterpillar Tractor Co., Deere and Co. and International Harvester Co. leading all the rest.

And the brain trusters have told the President the new early bargaining will keep peace in the pace- setting can, aluminum and steel industries next year.

For some time, Dunlop, in his best arcane university fashion, has looked like he had swallowed the whole cookie jar. Associates say he had quietly called in both sides in each upcoming confrontation and told them just what the government would tolerate in wage- price increases. So they could make the battle look as tough as they wished, they could growl at each other in public, but the settlements would have to be non- inflationary.

If they got real tough, the President has the power to crack down and will have it until next April 30, 1974, under the Stabilization Act. Thus he could always whack the extra- greedy profiteer--- in labor or management. So why bother with formal controls or Phase Four?

With unprecedented secrecy

Special jury resumes probe

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The special grand jury probing alleged political corruption in Maryland resumed work today under conditions of unprecedented secrecy.

Federal court house corridors leading to the grand jury room were sealed off by U.S. marshals with walkie-talkies who refused to allow newsmen within sight of the grand jury room or a nearby elevator.

"No public trials and no public hearings are in this area and it is closed to the public on the orders of the United States attorney," one assistant marshal told a newsman.

The grand jury is investigating allegations of kickbacks and conspiracy which may involve Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

U.S. Atty. George Beall refused to comment earlier in the day on the grand jury's plans for today, but courthouse sources indicated one or more indictments, probably of other local officials, might be forthcoming.

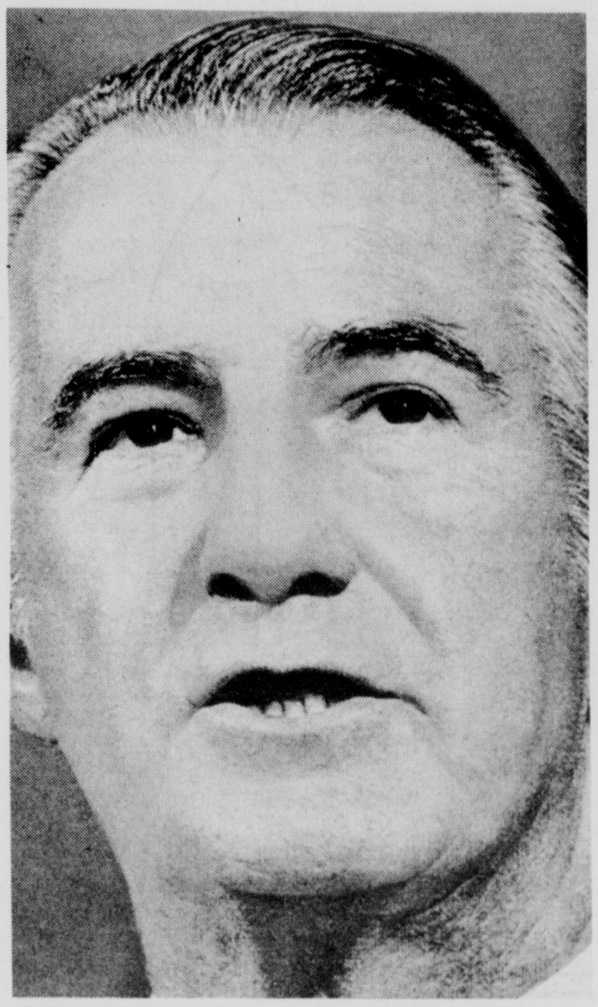
Asked why the strict secrecy provisions, never before undertaken during this investigation, Beall replied:

"By tradition and statute, grand jury proceedings are secret. Certain steps have been taken to preserve that privacy. Even witnesses going before the grand jury are part of the privacy and we intend to have it."

Within the area cordoned off by the marshals was an elevator by which witnesses appearing before the grand jury could come and go out of sight of reporters.

Beall heads the multi-pronged investigation centering on kickbacks by consulting engineers and architects for the award of sewer, water, road and building construction contracts. Already indicted is N. Dale Anderson, chief executive of Baltimore County, who succeeded Agnew in that post when Agnew became governor in 1967. Anderson will be arraigned Friday on 39 counts of alleged extortion, bribery and conspiracy.

The grand jury was sworn in last December and generally has met once a week since January.



SPIRO T. AGNEW'S usual warm smile is missing a lot these days as accusations from Maryland against the vice president fly thick and fast.

Increase in foster home care suggested

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps recommended today that payments for foster home care be increased in Missouri.

The lieutenant governor, making his first official recommendation as a result of his self-proclaimed role of ombudsman, suggested the establishment of a state foster parents' association that would be independent from state government.

Phelps also suggested that licensing restrictions be relaxed by the division of mental health.

"There are currently 606 foster homes in Missouri that are being threatened by an absurdly strict code," he said.

"Prospective parents of retarded children should not have to pay a $75 fee before their household is even approved. "The retarded are supposed to be entering family home, yet the stringent precautions taken by mental health can turn a household into another micro-institution."

Phelps said he had found problems caused by overlapping responsibility. The divisions of health and mental health each operate foster home placement programs.

"Foster care rates have remained the same for the last five years, while the cost of child raising has increased 100 per cent," Phelps said.

He said he found numerous complaints that the payments were too low.

The foster home rates are $68 a month for a child aged 2-5, $80 for a child aged 6-12 and less than $100 a month for those aged 13-16.

Generally, Phelps said, he found "much too much bureacracy involved in the divisions when they have sought normal, loving households in which foster children could be placed. The result is that their purpose has been defeated."

Wetterau vice president dies in accident

ST. LOUIS (AP)--A St. Louis business executive, Gordon Ellis, died Wednesday in a three-vehicle collision on Interstate 270 in St. Louis County, police said.

Ellis, 58, the vice president of Wetterau, Inc., a food distributing firm, was killed when his car was struck by a truck. Authorities said the truck went out of control when a tire blew out. A third car then struck Ellis' car.

Before joining Wetterau, Ellis, of suburban Creve Coeur, had been the president and chief executive of Fairmont Foods Co. of Omaha, Neb. and president and chief operating officer of Pet, Inc., of St. Louis.

Funeral services were incomplete. He is survived by his wife and four children.

Ann Landers

Widow should hire pros, not friend's husband

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please print this letter as a favor to every middle- aged woman with widowed lady friends and a handy husband?

Dear "Alone" (which is the way you like to describe yourself): I humbly suggest that you look in the yellow pages of your phone book when you want work done around the house--- instead of calling the husband of a friend. You have created more arguments than you will ever know. At the moment I can think of at least three major jobs (and ten minor ones) that need attending to but my husband can't get around to them because he has been going to YOUR house to do your chores.

When your husband died I asked you to call on me if you needed help, but I didn't mean I would share my husband with you. These days time is more important than money. I don't know how much more I have left. It burns me up when my husband leaves me alone for four hours at a stretch because he is at your house doing things you could hire done. I am reaching you through Ann Landers' column because I know you read her every day. If you think I mean you, I DO.--- Shunted And Resentful

Dear S. and R.: Here's your letter but don't expect it to solve the problem. That woman didn't kidnap your husband. He goes to her house because he wants to. When you find out WHY, you might figure out a solution to the problem.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been happily married for 20 years. We have two teenage children. Three months ago Chris was in a depressed mood and confessed he had been in love with another woman "all his life." They have been corresponding for years (unknown to me, of course). It came as a complete shock. He gave me no hint that ours was not a perfect marriage.

A few weeks ago Chris went to see this woman (for half an hour) after not having seen her for 21 years. When he told me of the "impetuous visit" I was stunned. I promptly telephoned the woman (long-distance) and asked what had been going on. She replied. "Absolutely nothing. I didn't want him 21 years ago and I don't want him now. Our correspondence has always been completely platonic." I believe her.

My husband has promised he will never see her again and there will be no more letter writing. He refuses to go to a psychiatrist because he says nothing is wrong with him. I now feel very resentful and hate for him to touch me. He has been leading a double life, mentally if not physically, and I am in a state of confusion as to why he had to behave so dishonestly.

Is it possible for a 45- year-old man to suffer feelings of rejection for 21 years when he has a wife who loves him-- and whom he says he loves?--- Needing Peace Of Mind

Dear N.: When you can accept the fact that your husband's fantasies are a symptom of his immaturity and no reflection on you, you'll have the peace of mind you seek. He needs your love and reassurance now more than ever. I hope you can supply both in abundance. Your marriage might depend on it.

Dear Ann Landers: I was amused by your definition of Lace Curtain Irish: "People who have fruit in the house when nobody's sick." One of your readers added another line: "and flowers when nobody's dead."

When I was in Ireland recently, I heard a better one: "The women are virgins until they marry--- and the men afterwards."--- Roger Ebert, Sun-Times Movie Critic

Roger, Honey: So--- how do you account for all those large families?

Melissa Hammock, Bill Daugherty wed Aug. 18

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Daugherty

MOREHOUSE-- Miss Melissa Ann Hammock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas L. Hammock Sr. of Morehouse, and William M. Daugherty Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Daugherty Sr. of Chaffee, were united in marriage Aug. 18 at 3 p.m. by the Revs. James L. Estep and Andrew Fowler in a double- ring ceremony at Rauch- Spence Memorial Methodist Church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor- length gown of white on white flocked organdy accented with ruffles at the neck and bottom. The tiered veiling was caught with a headdress of embroidered leaves and pearls. She carried a bouquet of yellow daisies and baby's breath. Her jewelry was an engraved bracelet given to her by the groom and a bracelet which was a wedding gift to her great- grandmother in 1867.

Mrs. Hammock chose for her daughter's wedding a floor- length dress of mint green polyester sheer. She wore a corsage of yellow daisies.

Mrs. Daugherty chose a floor- length dress of aqua polyester crepe and wore a corsage of daisies.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Linda Frankum of Arnold. Maid of honor was Miss Jackie Schindler of Morehouse and bridesmaids were Miss Beverly Barnes of Sikeston, Miss Sharon Breeden of Morehouse and Mrs. Beverly Worthy of Sikeston.

They wore identical floor-length dresses of yellow polyester and cotton covered with pinafores of yellow organdy with embroidered flowers and wore wide-brimmed picture hats accented with yellow streamers. Each carried a single yellow daisy.

Flower girl was Miss Diane Dillon of Sikeston, cousin of the bride. She wore a dress like those worn by the bridesmaids and carried a basket of yellow daisy petals.

Byron Dillon of Sikeston, cousin of the bride, was ringbearer. Candlelighters were Trenton and Darin Brown of Taylorville, Ill., also cousins of the bride.

Best man was Robert Daugherty of Loda, Ill., brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Danny Bickings of Cape Girardeau, cousin of the groom; Gary Proffer and Steve Duniphan of Chaffee; and Dan Daugherty, brother of the groom, also of Chaffee.

Doug Hammock Jr., brother of the bride, and Gary Bickings, cousin of the groom, seated the guests.

Music was provided by Mrs. Becky Burns of Cape Girardeau. Mrs. Marlys Smith, also of Cape, sang "The Wedding Song", "Here, There", and "One Hand, One Heart".

Following the ceremony, the bride presented her mother and her new mother-in- law a yellow rosebud.

Miss Susan Daugherty, sister of the groom, presided at the guestbook. Guests were presented wedding scrolls by cousins of the bride, Jon and Don Hammock of Sikeston. Rice bags were distributed by Miss Jayne Sailors of Alantic, Iowa, and Miss Stephanie Hammock of Sikeston, also cousins of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church dining room. Serving were Mrs. Penny Brown of Taylorville, Ill., cousin of the bride; Mrs. Debbie Bickings of Cape Girardeau, cousin of the groom; and Miss Jane Ann Baker of Sikeston.

A rehearsal supper was given by the groom's parents Aug. 17 in the Rauch-Spence Methodist Church dining room. A shower was given Aug. 3 by Mrs. Norman Crumpecker and Mrs. Madge Barnett.

After a trip to the Ozarks, the couple will resume studies at Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau where she is a junior majoring in special education and he is a senior mathmatics major.

Suzanne Hedrick is wed

Mrs. James Macrea Warden

Suzanne Patricia Hedrick and James Macrae Warden were married at 7 p.m. Aug. 18 in First United Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter N. Hedrick, 310 Kramer Driver, and Warden is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Danzel Warden of Glastonbury, Conn.

The Rev. Otto Dvorak officiated at the ceremony. The church was decorated with candelabras and palms. Two vases of bright colored flowers adorned the altar separated by a large cross.

The unity candle was lit by the bride and groom after the wedding vows were said.

Mrs. G. E. Childress, organist, presented nupital music during the ceremony. Harold Jones sang, "One Hand, One Heart" and "The Lord's Prayer." The traditional wedding marches were played for the processional and recessional.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length princess- style gown she designed and made herself. The dress of silk organza was embroidered with a floral ring design. The long full sleeves and Victorian- style collar were banded in satin, and the skirt had a modified train of wide banded skimmers satin. A crown of stephanatis flowers secured a three- tiered bouffant shoulder- length veil of English silk illusion. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white sweetheart roses, baby's breath and English Ivy. A handkerchief, a gift of her deceased maternal grandmother, was tucked into her bouquet.

Miss Janet Hedrick of Glastonbury, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. Miss Sally Warden, sister of the groom, was a bridesmaid. Each wore long empire- waist gowns of pastel yellow and peach- colored cotton. They carried a colorful nosegay.

Mrs. Hedrick, mother of the bride, wore a light blue satin polyester floor- length gown. It was accented with a crystal and pearl medallion beaded front. The groom's mother, Mrs. Warden, wore a pink formal gown with permanent pleating around its waist line. Both wore white miniature sweetheart roses. Each mother was presented a white rose wrapped in a white handkerchief during the ceremony.

The best man was William Scamuzzi of Glastonbury, and groomsman was Thomas Hedrick, brother of the bride. Ushers' were Charles Warden of Glastonbury, brother of the groom, and James Hunter of Fairfax. King George tuxedos were used by the male participants.

The couple received their guests at a reception in the church foyer. A pineapple cloth wall hanging was hung on the fireplace. An imported hand- embroidered cloth on the bride's table held a three- tiered, columned, wedding cake. It was topped with wedding bells.

A large, silver, punch bowl graced one end of the table and a caldelabra was placed on the other. Miss Becky Koch of Sikeston presided at the punch bowl, and Mrs. Phillip Smith of Chicago, Ill., served the wedding cake.

Mrs. W. W. Wilkison of Sikeston served chocolate cake and punch from the groom's table, and Mrs. James Hall of Cape Girardeau registered the guests.

Pre- nupital activities included a luncheon given by Mrs. James Hall of Cape Girardeau and Mrs. Michael Cooley of Carbondale, Ill.

A morning coffee- shower was given at the home of Mrs. George Doyle of Sikeston. Co- hostesses for the event were Mrs. Howard Napier, Mrs. Marcus Koch and Mrs. Horace Walters.

A luncheon was given at Ramada Inn by Mrs. Harry White, Mrs. Robert Bennett, Mrs. Irene Kuehle, Mrs. Jackie Grant and Mrs. W. W. Wilkison.

A rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents the Friday before the wedding at Ramada Inn.

Crash kills 4

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four persons died as a result of a two-car crash in Jackson County Wednesday evening. Two others were killed in separate accidents.

The big crash was on U.S. 40 near Blue Springs. The highway patrol said Robert Louis Cuda, 40, of Oak Grove, Mo., pulled out to pass another vehicle and met an oncoming car driven by Gary Lee Wyatt, 22, of Blue Springs.

The victims were Cuda, Wyatt, Edgar E. Brown, 23, of Independence and his wife, Diana Katherin Brown, 17. The Browns were in Wyatt's car.

The patrol said Wyatt tried to avoid the collision but his car was hit broadside by Cuda's car.

About 15 miles west of the St. Louis metropolitan area Randy Arnold Brautigam, 19, of Washington, Mo., was killed in a collision between his motorcycle and a pickup truck. The patrol said Brautigam rounded a sharp curve of Missouri 94 at high speed and skidded into the truck's path.

Gordon Ellis, 58, Creve Couer, Mo., was killed in a three-car accident on U.S. 270 in St. Louis County. Officers said a tire blow-out caused a car to veer into the opposite lane and hit another car. A third vehicle hit the wreckage and overturned. Ellis was in the second car.

Knights speedy

The Farmington Knights will be 60 members strong Friday night when they call at Public School Stadium to take part in the opening of the Sikeston Bulldogs gridiron season. Kickoff is set for 7:30.

Coach Jack Richardson has only four returning starters, two on offense and a pair on defense, but has a large number of lettermen who saw a lot of action last season during the Knights 7-2 campaign.

SHS spoiled the Knights season opener last year when Bill Colwick connected on a last second pass to Glen Guttenfelder for the deciding points. FHS's only other loss came at the hands of Valle of Ste. Genevieve and made the Knights settle for second place in the Leadbelt conference.

"We don't have much experience," coach Richardson said. "Our strongest point will be speed. We're not big physically, but have better than average speed."

Coach Richardson refused to name a possible starting line-up, simply because the competition at most of the positions is so keen. "Rod Rhodes and Ave Ruble are battling it out for the quarterback job," Richardson noted. Rhodes directed the JV last season and seems to have the inside shot at the opening slot Friday against the Bulldogs.

The list of returning starters for the Knights include split end Roger Vessell, tailback Gary McGuire, noseman Keith Evans and defensive back Bruce Martin.

Littell honored

OMAHA, Neb. — Three years ago Mark Littell was humming fast balls for Gideon, Mo., high school and was bidding for the all-state team, but failed to get the support of the metropolitan papers for the honor and had to settle for honorable mention.

It seemed that everyone except the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters, who select the team, knew of the hard throwing righthander. The country boy was an early round draft pick of the Kansas City Royals and signed a five figure bonus pact.

But today the 20-year old major league pitcher has got the backing he so well deserved and was named the Most Popular Omaha Royal Player by the fans, selected as the Outstanding Royals player by the Omaha Sportscasters Association and was named the recipient of the Allie Reynolds Award that goes to the American Associations top pitcher as selected by the league managers and American Association Baseball Writers.

Littell, nicknamed "Country", owns a 16-6 league record and is only in his third season of professional baseball. His 2.42 earned run average this season was the tops in the American Association. Mark fanned 127 batters in 171 1/3 innings for the Royals top minor league club and spent a month in the majors.

Reynolds is a former Yankee pitching great who served as the Associations president from 1969-71. The award goes annually to the pitcher chosen by the league managers and writers as the best.

The Souhteast Missourian recorded a 5-1 record his rookie season at Billings and was 10-9 at Waterloo of the Midwest league last year. At Waterloo, he set a league mark by fanning 199 batters in 153 innings to lead the league.

Littell was called up two weeks ago to help the Royals in their pennant drive.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is expected to vote Thursday on a bill that would prohibit the National Football League from refusing to telecast home games locally if there is a ticket sellout 72 hours in advance.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Torbert H. MacDonald, D-Mass., was approved by the House Commerce Committee Tuesday.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Star guard Jerry West, who has hinted at retirement, was one of three prominent players absent Tuesday when the Los Angeles Lakers opened their training camp.

A team spokesman said West, who is trying to re-negotiate his contract, would be fined an undisclosed amount of cash for each day he misses camp.

Also missing were center Wilt Chamberlain and forward- guard Keith Erickson, who are not under contract but reportedly are negotiating agreements with the team.

Cards lack punch

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Looking for a winner in the National League East? Try the 81 victories suggested by the manager of the Montreal Expos.

The Expos beat the sagging St. Louis Cardinals 2-1 Wednesday night, and Gene Mauch hinted a .500 pace may yet win the division's 162-game season.

"You let our club win the 10 games we want to win and...," said Mauch, who then paused to rephrase his thoughts.

"If I can pick the 10 games I want to win," he mused, ".500 baseball would win it all."

Mauch failed to enumerate his choices, but high in priority would be triumphs over the Pittsburgh Pirates during the division's tangled windup.

The Expos, 71-73, return home Friday to face the Philadelphia Phillies, then take on the Cardinals and Chicago Cubs before playing the first-place Bucs.

Pittsburgh, 71-71, moves into Montreal's cozy Jarry Park for four games beginning Sept. 22, and the same two teams are scheduled to slug it out in the final three-game series of the year at Pittsburgh.

Montreal, a game behind and in third place, Wednesday night displayed two ingredients needed to stay on the heels of the Pirates.

Steve Rogers was off to a rocky start but twice quelled bases-loaded, none-out Cardinal threats to prevail with a six-hitter.

And Bob Bailey, retired three times by Rick Wise, took the St. Louis right-hander "downtown" with a ninth-inning leadoff home run to snap a 1-1 tie.

"He's got to go with his best pitch, and his best pitch is a fast ball," said the 30-year-old Bailey, who tagged a 3-2 delivery by Wise, 13-12, for his 24th homer.

"He'd been fast balling the heck out of us," the Expos' third baseman added. "He was entitled to two runs and he was probably tired. And our guys were fantastic."

Bailey's latter reference was to fielding plays by Tim Foli in the opening frame and by Mike Jorgensen with the Cardinals threatening again in the seventh.

Foli ranged far to his right at shortstop and threw out Joe Torre after Lou Brock singled, Ted Sizemore walked and Ted Simmons doubled for the St. Louis run.

Bernie Carbo also coaxed a walk from the 6-foot-2 Rogers to load the bases, but Tim McCarver fanned and Jose Cruz popped up before Torre came to bat.

In the seventh Wise led off with a double, Brock walked and the Expos let Ted Sizemore's attempted sacrifice bunt roll for a hit loading the bases.

Simmons then ripped a grounder at Jorgensen which the Montreal first baseman scooped up and turned into a double play at home plate and the bag.

"How can I praise them enough?" a grateful Rogers asked. "I just had to pump myself up. You just try to stay away from the big inning."

Rogers' ninth victory in 12 decisions extended a Cardinals slump to five games and left them half a game behind the Pirates, whom they'll entertain over the weekend.

"I don't think I can change our lineup much more," a perplexed Redbirds Manager Red Schoendienst lamented.

"I've switched them around and switched them around trying to score runs," he said. "If we don't score pretty soon, everybody will wind up ahead of us."

Legislators willing to give up parking area

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Legislative leaders and state officials say they are willing to give up some of their privileged parking in the basement of the capitol because it has been called a serious fire hazard.

Robert James, who heads the Office of Administration, said last week the number of spots will be reduced lower at this time because of a shortage of outside parking. He also said there was great pressure from state officials and legislators for basement parking privileges.

House Speaker Richard J. Rabbitt, D-St. Louis, said "I'm not uptight about parking. It's kind of a status symbol ... If they want to move all of them out of there, it's alright with us. I'll park outside."

Rabbitt said he thinks the basement should be used primarily for office and storage space. He said any reduction in the number of parking spots should be done fairly.

Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, who is the president pro tem of the Senate, said parking in the basement was a great convenience, but added: "I think they can reduce it if they take some extra people from the governor's staff. They have increased it during this administration."

Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps said "I would accept any reduction, as long as it is done on a fair basis."

Phelps has three spaces assigned, for himself, an aide and his secretary. He said he felt the Office of Administration was taking correct measures in restricting in-and-out traffic in the basement, which consists mainly of motorists who drop off passengers.

James I. Spainhower, state treasurer, said parking in the basement was not absolutely necessary. "I think it has gotten out of hand. You don't need that many people parking in there," Spainhower said.

John D. Ashcroft, state auditor, said: "I'm not hung up on parking in the basement." He said he was "willing to cooperate to make the capitol safe ... I'll have to see a proposal."

James C. Kirkpatrick, secretary of state, said he remembers that during the 1940s only top elected officials were allowed to park in the basement because parking was considered dangerous—both as a fire hazard and because of exhaust fumes.

Kirkpatrick said he's concerned about the fumes, especially during the winter when more auto engines are running in the basement. "Sometimes it's unbearable down there. They ought to put a big exhause fan at one end..."

About 100 of the 500 employes in the capitol work in basement offices, the doors of which could become blocked if a major fire occurred in the parking area.

Kirkpatrick said he wouldn't object to losing some of his six spaces if the governor's parking was also reduced. "My key people are just as important as the governor's secretaries," he said.

The governor's office and Office of Administration have a combined total of 49 spaces in the basement, 15 going to secretaries.

There are 25 spots assigned to the legislators, who are not in town at least half the year. Many of these places are used by secretaries and others when the session is out.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond says the main problem in reducing the parking is the shortage of parking around the capitol.

James said in three or four years a new state office building could be built near the capitol with a 600-car garage. He said at that time the capitol parking could be reduced to about 20 spaces.

A state fire inspector wrote in January, and again in July that "Each vehicle, due to the gasoline and electrical system, constitutes a potential fire hazard." Inspectors said a leaking gas tank and carelessly tossed cigarette could set off a fire and it could be carried upward thrugh the capitol through elevator shafts.

There is no insurance on the capitol, which contains many important records, a museum and works of art.

James said that besides reducing basement parking by 12 spaces, other steps have been taken to guard against a fire. These include installation of fire extinguishers, ordering of new fire hoses, issuance of basement parking permits, and better guard protection.

Australia beef production shows world-wide shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — An indication that a world-wide beef shortage exists is provided in a report that beef production in Australia, the leading exporter of meat to the United States, declined in July.

The Agriculture Department reported Wednesday that imports of Australian beef in July were only 52.0 million pounds compared with 58.7 million in July last year.

The report showed the cumulative total of Australian beef imports through July this year was down 3 per cent from the first seven months of 1972.

Other supplying countries, however, increased their supply which resulted in a 5 per cent boost during the January-July period last year.

About 18 months ago President Nixon suspended meat import quotas to allow more low quality beef to enter the country in hopes that larger supplies would mean lower consumer prices. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz estimated then that imports of quota-type meat would be about 1.450 billion pounds this year.

The department's figures for the first seven months showed that less than half of this amount—some 701.3 million pounds—had arrived so far.

Officials say, however, that the estimate still is valid.

Although domestic prices for U.S. cattle have declined in recent weeks, they still are near record highs.

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is some indication that soybean farmers, enjoying relatively high prices for their 1973 harvest, may get some competition next year from Peruvian fishmeal.

The Agriculture Department said Wednesday that Peru may increase fishmeal production in 1974 to about 1.2 million tons, about 800,000 more than this year's production.

The decline in fishmeal output is credited in part for the big jump in soybean prices this year. With the return of fishmeal production in Peru, there is a possibility that foreign buyers may seek less soybean meal to meet their livestock protein requirements, department officials said.

The officials, however, added that they do not feel any large break in the soybean market is forthcoming in the near future.

The official soybean crop estimate as of Sept. 1—which will produce meal supplies through the next year—was a record 1.6 billion bushels, up 25 per cent from last year.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest call for Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz to resign has been rejected out-of-hand by one of his aides.

A new consumer group called the National Consumers Congress marched on the department Wednesday and demanded Butz's resignation.

The group also called for overhaul of farm and food programs, including strict controls on exports of farm products and a review of possible antitrust monopolities by big agribusiness outfits.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter, who met with the group's leaders, said that "nothing of any consequence" was accomplished and that Butz would not resign.

Towns without long-distance service

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A number of communities in southern Missouri were left without long distance telephone service for about three hours Wednesday when a farmer near Cuba, Mo., severed an underground cable.

A spokesman for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. said the break, which occurred while a farmer was digging a post hole, cut off calls to St. Louis from about 14 communities. Local calls were not affected.

The telephone company spokesman said the severed cable connected St. Louis and Rolla, a point where many long distance calls are switched.

Strike settlement hoped for

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"We still have some bargaining to do, but I'm hopeful of a settlement by noon," said Harold Gibbons, an international vice president of the Teamsters Union, following Wednesday's negotiations in the Teamsters strike that has halted publication of both St. Louis daily newspapers.

"I can report progress on all issues," said Gibbons, who entered the talks at the request of Teamsters chief Frank Fitzsimmons. "They're not all resolved, but we're closer now than we ever have been."

What Gibbons implied may be the last round of talks in the dispute was set for today with federal mediators following the four-hour session Wednesday between Teamster Union Local 610 and representatives of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A spokesman for the Post-Dispatch said the paper's negotiating team met Wednesday night after the day's bargaining to discuss differences in language and interpretation of some proposals.

"But there is general agreement on the major issues," the spokesman emphasized. "There are just some points to be worked out in their complete form."

Federal mediator Paul Bowers expressed optimism for a quick settlement as the session began.

"It is my fervent hope that St. Louis will have a Sunday paper," he said.

Although the spokesman for the Post-Dispatch decline to comment on that speculation, he said the newspaper could probably begin publishing again two days after the union ratifies any contract settlement.

The apparent break in the 23-day strike came early Wednesday when negotiators concluded a marathon 18-hour bargaining session that saw the central issue in the strike settled.

The union, representing 32 dock workers and 170 delivery truck drivers, walked off the job at midnight Aug. 22 over a demand that several dock workers jobs not be eliminated through attrition at the Post-Dispatch's new printing plant. The strike halted publication of the Post and the separately owned Globe-Democrat, which is printed under contract by the Post, and idled some 2,200 workers.

Officials of the Post-Dispatch had claimed that automation at the new plant made some of the dockhand jobs unnecessary. Spokesman said a compromise was reached on that issue.

Consumer protection bill passed

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move aimed at protecting the consumer, the Senate has passed a bill requiring manufacturers to spell out the meaning of any written warranty that accompanies a product.

Under its terms, a seller who issues a "full warranty" on, say, sale of an electric mixer, car or a suit of clothes would have to make clear he will replace the product or repair any malfunction or defect within a reasonable time without charge.

The bill provides that the consumer would be allowed to sue for damages if the seller reneges on his written commitment.

The bill, passed Wednesday, now goes to the House, which previously killed two similar measures. Senate Commerce Committee Chairman Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., said he expects the House to pass the bill this time.

"It seems to me that some anger is expectable when purchasers of consumer products discover that the warranty of that product may cover a 25-cent part but not the $100 labor charge, or that there is full coverage on a piano so long as it is shipped at the purchaser's expense to the factory," Magnuson said.

The bill, hailed by cosponsor Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, as the finest piece of consumerprotection legislation ever passed by the Senate, was approved without dissent by voice vote.

The bill also expands the powers of the Federal Trade Commission in consumer-protection areas.

It allows the FTC to go to court to recover money for defrauded or deceived consumers and authorizes the agency to seek injunctions and pursue other actions to stop deceptive practices, even when products do not cross state lines.

The measure would give the seller of a product worth more than $5 the option of issuing a warranty. If he decides to give one, he is required to stipulate the type and describe its terms in layman's language.

School's mewest project

School systems almost always have something to say about not having enough funds for this or that project, but this newest of the Sikeston school system's facilities may be stretching the point more than most. Actually, the building is a convenience shelter at the site of a house being built by one of the vocational education classes.

"PAINLESS" PARKING TICKET PAYING is the idea here as Officer George Reed writes out a ticket at an expired meter in Mount Clemens, Mich. The parker can pay the fine in that box on the posted post. Mount Clemens has 20 such on-the-spot pay stations.

All evidence suggests the idea of psychological warfare is as old as conflict itself. Long ago men discovered ideas are as potent as weapons. In crossing the Alps in 218 BC, Hannibal frightened his enemies with elephants. Not that elephants were more efficient than weapons — they must have been a liability in rugged terrain; but foes who had never seen elephants before threw down their arms and fled at seeing such large animals for the first time.

Discussing activities

Mrs. Jerry (Bonnie) Dyer, center, discusses new projects with some of last year's Girl Scouts planned for this school year and how the new girls will like them. From left are: Jannell Hendon, Carmen Foster, Mrs. Dyer, Michelle Foster and Libby Boyer.

Scouting is vital part of life

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles about long-time Girl Scout leaders who want others to know how rewarding the scouting program can be.)

Mrs. Jerry Dyer, or Bonnie as most people call her, has been an avid supporter of Girl Scouting for many years and has been actively involved with the Cotton Boll Council scout program in Sikeston almost 13 years.

She began her scouting role as a day camp leader, then as leader of her daughter's Brownie troop and "flying-up" with her into Junior scouting where she remained the leader of Troop 273 for 10 years. Her daughter Gail has completed 11 years of scouting and another daughter, Leslie, is going to be a Brownie scout this year.

Through the years, her most important role has been that of a troop leader, but in addition, she has found time to serve in other responsible volunteer positions and is presently troop organizer for Southwest Elementary School, a junior leader consultant and does adult training in the Cotton Boll area. She also serves as photographer of the public relations staff and is currently working with Mrs. Joe Dye as co-director for a forthcoming Camp Latonka mini-session.

Mrs. Dyer and her husband Jerry live at 406 Edmondson with their three children, Gail, Rick and Leslie. The family shares her enthusiasm for scouting, and she feels the whole family's cooperation and understanding is needed for her to be an active worker.

Her husband is on the Camp Latonka maintenance and development committee and is a ready helper at the established camp.

Although scouting is a vital part of her life, Mrs. Dyer does share the personal interests of her family in her active support of her son's baseball programs, her children's school functions and helps her husband in his business. She is a member of the Southwest and senior high Parent- Teacher Associations, holding the office of treasurer of the later. She was a room mother and was parent co-sponsor of the 1973 senior class.

In her leisure time, Mrs. Dyer enjoys weekends at Lake Wappapello and fishing.

She would like to encourage mothers as well as fathers of Girl Scouts to become actively involved with their daughters in scout activities and wants all adults to know the enjoyment of working with young girls.

The world's first automobile show was held in New York City in 1900. More than half the vehicles exhibited were steam cars and electric cars.

Association offers booklet

JEFFERSON CITY — Although Missouri ranks 15th in passenger car registrations among all the states in the United States, only 11 states have more trucks and buses registered.

As a result, the payrolls of the 240,600 men and women directly employed in the commercial vehicle industry in Missouri now amounts to approximately $2 billion a year.

These are among the facts in a 32-page statistical booklet prepared by the Missouri Bus and Truck Association. The publication was prepared for distribution to school, college and public libraries, chambers of commerce, news media and public officials as well as to members of the association.

Other highlights in the booklet entitled "Facts About Missouri's Bus & Truck Industry" are:

One paycheck in eight in Missouri now comes from bus and truck operations.

Special highway taxes paid by trucks and buses to the state and to the Federal Highway Trust Fund constitute 40 per cent of the total expenditures by the Missouri Highway Commission for construction, maintenance, administration and highway law enforcement.

Truck and buses are the only form of public transportation serving 61 per cent of the cities and towns in Missouri.

Since 1935, truck registrations in the state have grown twice as fast as passenger car registrations.

Last year there were 9,363 truck lines authorized to operate in Missouri and 237 commercial bus lines.

Light trucks registered for 10,000 pounds gross weight (vehicle plus load) constitute 52.5 per cent of all trucks registered in the state. The so-called heavy trucks weighing between 26,001 pounds gross weight and the maximum of 73,280 pounds represent 9.1 per cent of the 584,000 trucks in the state.

What's the law?

The case of the nutty shrink

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Jittery Jed suffered from psychological problems that, like a malady, plagued him night and day. And, finally, reduced to a bundle of nerves, he applied for a workman's compensation award claiming that all of his problems were due to his job. His employer, in turn, insisted that Jed undergo psychiatric treatment to build up his condition and thus cut down on the amount of his award.

"Not me," was Jed's answer. "I'm not going to any shrink."

"If you don't go," was his employer's answer, "I'll fight your award and you won't get a plugged nickle."

Having less confidence in psychiatry than his boss' threat, Jed took the matter to court, where his boss continued to insist no treatment, no benefits.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold back Jed's workman's compensation benefits unless he went to a shrink?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that an employe can be denied workman's compensation benefits when he suffers from a psychiatric disorder and refuses to undergo psychiatric treatment which is likely to improve his condition and which involves no serious suffering or danger to himself.

Route H scene

Scott County Route H near Blodgett was a source of controversy earlier this year when work crews from Scott- New Madrid- Mississippi Electric Cooperative cut several catalpa trees lining the roadway. The trees have long been both a visual pleasure for drivers and a physical danger. The trees were cut to prevent damage to power lines and to decrease the danger to cars which might run off the road. According to State Highway Department maintenance personnel, there are no plans to cut any more of the trees at the present time.

TURNER AT WHEEL

KINGS POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Ted Turner, of Atlanta, Ga., has been named skipper of the new 12-meter yacht, Mariner, for the 1974 America's Cup trials off Newport, R.I. The Mariner is sponsored by the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy and is an aluminum yacht.

The Mariner will be built starting in November at the Derecktor shipyard in Mamaroneck, N.Y. It was designed by Britton Chance Jr. The yacht is being built from donations to the Kings Point Fund, a fund-raising part of the Merchant Marine Academy.

The 34-year-old Turner skippered the American Eagle and the Gretel II.

General Eisenhower credited the C-47 with being one of the four "weapons" that won the war in Africa and Europe. The others were the Jeep, the bulldozer, and the 2½-ton truck.

GED classes proposed

BELL CITY — The Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation is interested in starting general education development classes for adults in the Bloomfield, Advance and Bell City areas, depending upon which area has the largest number of enrollees. If enough interest is shown in each of the areas, classes could be held in all three areas.

The GED classes are to run for six months and will provide adults 18 years and older, who have not completed high school, with training and instruction to enable them to pass the GED test upon completion of the course, thereby obtaining a Missouri high school equivalency diploma. The course will be free for those who qualify.

Persons interested in such a course may contact the Bell City Area Opportunity Center, or phone 733-4565 for details. Enrollment night will be held at the Bell City DAEOC Center on Sept. 20 from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. If enough enroll, classes could begin by Oct.

Lunch program success

The summer lunch program for needly children sponsored by the Delmo Housing Corporation ended Aug. 24. The program began June 11 and provided lunches for an average of 3,697 children each day this summer.

Success of this program was mainly due to the many volunteers who supervised the lunch program at the 28 locations where the lunches were served. There were 123 volunteers who worked a total of 16,408 hours in the program this summer. There were no paid employes in the program, since the U.S. Department of Agriculture only pays for the lunches served.

Delmo is planning a dinner for the volunteers to show its appreciation for their support this summer.

Gene L. Holden

Staff Sgt. Gene L. Holden of Sikeston, Mo., was recently awarded the Joint Service Commendation Medal.

His citation reads:

"The Army sergeant distinguished himself by meritorious service culminating as the administrative supervisor, processing section, Armed Forces Examining and Entrance Station, Indianapolis, Ind., from June 1969 to November 1972.

"During this period, Sgt. Holden demonstrated outstanding organizational ability and professional competance in the performance of all assigned duties. His comprehensive knowledge of procedures governing the completion of Armed Forces enlistment contracts was particularly noteworthy. He was responsible for many improvements and provided valuable assistance in the processing of applicants and registrants for entry in the armed forces.

"The outstanding working relationships he established with other sections and recruiting representatives resulted in a controlled and coordinated processing workflow. His willingness to assume additional tasks alleviated excessive workloads and helped compensate for personnel shortages, and his dilligent efforts made significant contributions to mission accomplishment.

"Sgt. Holden's exemplary performance of duty has reflected great credit upon himself, the United States Army, and the Department of Defnese."

Sgt. Holden is a 1963 graduate of Sikeston High School. He is married to the former Carol Ann Ramsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Ramsey of Sikeston, and is now serving a tour of duty in Osam, Korea.

Prayer for today

from the Upper Room

Before I was afflicted I went astray; but now I keep thy word. (Psalm 119:67)

PRAYER: Dear Lord, clear our spiritual eyesight that we may see accurately our relation to You, our heavenly Father. Forgive our pride and self-importance. May our encounters with suffering develop sensitivity to Your direction and presence. Amen.

300 complaints handled since acting as ombudsman

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps says his office has handled about 300 complaints against government bureaucracy since he began voluntarily acting as the state's ombudsman July 18.

Since that time, Phelps, who campaigned on a promise of being a fulltime lieutenant governor, has made several trips around the state publicizing his new role as a troubleshooter for the public.

Phelps says he's considering asking the legislature for extra appropriations to his office to handle the ombudsman program but hasn't reached a decision.

He has a secretary and an administrative aide and two summer interns, both of whom will be returning to college this fall.

"We need a fulltime caseworker," he said in an interview.

His office has not handled personnel problems or problems directly the responsibility of a state agency.

"In most cases," Phelps said, "people just need to know where to turn."

"I even found the need for an ombudsman to handle complaints at the state fair," he said.

The citizen complaints have ranged from disagreements with the Army Corps of Engineers over easement rights to placement of children in foster homes. There have been complaints about mail foulups, phone snafus and visitation rights at the state prison.

In Audrain County, Phelps said, a man had the state Division of Health test two samples of water and they were sent back, labeled as unsafe. No action was taken by the local water supply district, "so he called me," Phelps said.

Phelps called the Clean Water Commission, which handles water pollution regulation, and the water was improved.

"That's kind of a perfect example of what an ombudsman can do," Phelps said.

Two bills in the legislature to set up such an office failed because legislators didn't want to spend the money and because some did not want to see a state official such as Phelps put his help for individual citizens to political gain.

Phelps said he didn't object to appointing an official state ombudsman, but "I'm in the best position to do the job."

The 39-year-old former legislator is involved in a state Supreme Court case with the Senate Democratic leadership over his desire to preside over the Senate. He has also acted as the state's flood disaster coordinator.

Phelps has been mentioned as a possibility as U.S. Senate candidate in 1974, but he supports Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth for the race. Should Danforth not run, Phelps has said, he might consider running.

The lieutenant governor says he has had "complete cooperation" with other state agencies in handling complaints. "Whenever we see a need for change in the law or procedure we will make a recommendation," he said.

Phelps said today the area needing the most reform, based on the cases he's handled, is in the placement of foster children.

"Much too much bureaucracy has been involved in the divisions of mental health and welfare," in placement of children, he said.

"The result is that their purpose has been defeated," he said. "I have seen the best of parents actually discouraged from taking homeless youths into their families."

"In one case, mental health's rigid licensing procedure had made life unbearable for a couple who had warmly accepted the task of bringing up a retarded teen-ager," Phelps said.

He said a father of two foster teen-agers complained that he could not make ends meet because of inflation.

Foster care rates have remained the same for the last five years, while the cost of child-raising has increased 100 per cent, Phelps said.

Phelps said he would ask the governor to include in his legislative package an increase in foster home rates.

The foster home rates to parents now are $68 a month for a child aged 2-to-5, $80 for a child aged 6-12 and $96 for those 13-16.

Committee urges GI benefits increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — Asserting that Vietnam-era veterans are worse off than their fathers, an independent committee urged today that GI Bill educational benefits be increased substantially.

A gap between post-World War II and current benefits "serves to reinforce the belief of today's veteran that he fought an unpopular war and must deal with public apathy about his future," the Special Veterans' Opportunity Committee said.

The committee, chaired by Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., was formed by the National League of Cities and the U. S. Conference of Mayors. Its 39-page report was based on an eight-month study of veterans' problems, including public hearings at Newark, N. J., Cleveland and Seattle.

The committee found that "Many veterans simply cannot afford to use the G. I. Bill."

It also concluded that:

—Public reaction to the Vietnam war has been a severe obstacle for GI's trying to adjust to civilian life.

—Those who need help most are not getting it from the G. I. Bill.

—World War II veterans had more benefits and greater public acceptance.

The committee recommended that the federal government add to the basic payment of $220 a month for single veterans a voucher to pay 80 per cent of his tuition and fees.

The committee did not estimate the cost of its proposals but noted that the G. I. Bill will cost $2.5 billion this year.

Fewer pupils to participate

WASHINGTON (AP) — As many as 800,000 fewer pupils may participate in the National School Lunch Program this year because of rising food prices, according to a study by the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs.

According to the staff study, one per cent of the children participating in the program drop out of it for every one per cent increase in the price of the lunches.

"The real tragedy of this crisis is that the impact is falling hardest on those low-and middle-income working families whose children are not protected by the law entitling children from the poorest families to lunches at no cost," said Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., chairman of the committee. The full report is part of McGovern's testimony before a Senate Agriculture subcommittee hearing on several bills to increase and revise federal aid to school lunch and breakfast programs.

Process aids record salvage

ST. LOUIS (AP)—America's space-age technology has been put to use in salvaging some of the millions of records damaged in a four-day fire that swept through the Military Personnel Records Center in suburban Overland last July.

Officials of the McDonnell Douglas Corp. here said today a space chamber, previously used to simulate temperatures and pressures encountered in the Mercury and Gemini manned-space missions, is being employed in the reclamation of the records.

According to a spokesman, the records, loosely packed in open cases, are sealed in the chamber and put through a freeze drying process. He said the water-soaked and scorched records are intially heated to 140 degrees and then frozen while the pressure in the chamber is gradually lowered to only a fraction of the normal 15 pounds per square inch.

The drop in pressure, he said, squeezes the water from the paper and the cold temperature freezes it. The spokesman explained that the material is again heated with warm dry air and a vacuum pumping system eliminates the water from the chamber.

"The records come through the process legible and ready to go back into use," a company official said, adding that the drying process also eliminates the burnt odor that scorched, wet paper has.

The aerospace firm said it has already received inquiries from the Library of Congress concerning the use of the process for water-damaged books.

More than 20 million records of former servicemen and women were damaged or destroyed when fire raged for four days on the sixth floor of the one-block-by-two-block federal complex.

Jeffery P. Hillelson, regional administrator of the General Services Administration, said Wednesday reconstruction efforts at the center were proceeding on schedule.

"About one-third of the sixth floor has been cleaned up and as many records as possible have been salvage," Hillelson said. Although the fire was contained on the top floor, files on several lower floors suffered water damage.

An investigation is still being conducted into the cause of the blaze, he said.

Experimental testing halted

ST. LOUIS (AP)—All experimental drug testing on patients at state hospitals has been halted by Dr. Harold Robb, director of the Missouri Division of Mental Health, pending implementation of new consent procedures.

The report came Wednesday from St. Louis television station KPLR, which said Robb ordered officials to stop the patient drug testing program Aug. 30 until all new consent procedure requirements were met. The station said, however, that it was not known whether the new consent regulations have been implemented and testing resumed.

Robb issued the message to all superintendents and clinic administrators to halt any drug testing programs at their facilities following the disclosure of some 1,500 letters between drug companies and the Missouri Institute of Psychiatry.

The letters implied that patients were promised for testing of new drug company products without assuring that consent rules would be followed, officials of the Church of Scientology claimed in making the documents public.

The letters were turned over to the church officials by a former state hospital patient, who collected them from trash cans over a five-year period.

Robb said he has found no violations of consent procedures at the state hospitals involved in the testing program. But he imposed stricter rules for patient consent to participate in the experiments following the disclosure of the letters, dating from 1959. Those rules have been approved by the state Mental Health Commission.
